

Lars Sonderegger
CEO and Founder Quantonomics

Lars Sonderegger holds a business degree and received his Master of Arts, Summa Cum Lauda, in Neuroscience and Psychology at the University of Zurich. His thesis was on the effects of cognitive-behavioral stress management on psychoneuroendocrine responses, under an exam setting.

Concurrently pursuing his academic endeavors Lars Sonderegger conducted lectures and served as a tutor for students studying Neuroscience at the University of Zurich. After graduating from the University of Zurich in 2003, he joined the IKAMED Institute AG. He has led the company and diversified it into new areas of business. In 2006 he became Executive Chairman, a position which he still holds today.

Parallel to his work he followed his passion for research in neuroscience, quantum physics, behavioral psychology and management. His research has led to an evidence-based methodology changing corporations and institutions to the mind-set of the 21st-century. After 6 years of research Quantonomics founded and today is engineered into various companys and institutions.
