

Brett Tollman
Chief Executive, The Travel Corporation

With over 35 years experience in travel and tourism, Brett is Chief Executive of The Travel Corporation (TTC.com), a family-owned, international travel group operating in over 70 countries, on seven continents, with 40 offices and more than 10,000 employees. Well-diversified and entrepreneurially run, The Travel Corporation serves around two million guests per annum across its rich portfolio of over 25 award-winning niche brands including specialists in escorted journeys and guided holidays; luxury river-cruising; independent & youth travel and sightseeing specialists. The group also owns and operates the renowned, luxury Red Carnation Hotel Collection.

Brett is an enthusiastic advocate for sustainable travel and is the founder of The TreadRight Foundation (Treadright.org), a not-for-profit organization, which funds and supports numerous projects around the world that foster sustainable travel and tourism. Brett's commitment to travel and tourism is also extended through his position as a Vice-Chairman of the World Travel and Tourism Council (WTTC.org) as well as his involvement with Tourism Cares (Tourismcares.org) events.